

Human Resources and Employee Wellness
Parks Canada

Employee Self-Identification

Every ripple, every identity, creates waves of inclusion at Parks Canada!

From coast to coast to coast, Parks Canada is committed to fostering a diverse, inclusive, equitable, and accessible workplace where everyone feels welcome, valued, and respected. As part of this commitment, we encourage employees to voluntarily self-identify. By doing so, you help contribute to this vision, enabling our organization to:

Understand Our Workforce

Gain insights into the representation of different groups across our workplaces.

Tailor Our Support

Create resources that foster a safe, healthy, and respectful work environment for everyone.

Guide Our Path

Inform research, programs, and policies to better serve the needs of all employees.

 Questions? Connect with us at eequestionnaires@pc.gc.ca

Make a splash! Consider self-identification.

SCAN HERE

to learn more and access the questionnaire!

[parks.canada.ca/
self-identification](https://parks.canada.ca/self-identification)

 Gwaii Haanas National Park Reserve, National Marine Conservation Area Reserve, and Haida Heritage Site

Parks Canada
Parcs Canada

Canada